CELEBRATING WOMEN COMPOSERS
a timeline

Wise Music Group has long celebrated diversity in its classical catalogues. The call for fairer representation of women composers in the programming of festivals and orchestral seasons has never been stronger. As a result we are regularly asked for information about the repertoire written by women composers whose music we represent.

This booklet is laid out by composer in chronological order and emphasises the rich history and output of their orchestral music in particular. We have included brief introductions to each composer, repertoire listings and links to explore the music further online.

This time includes such leading Russian names as Sofia Gubaidulina, Galina Ustvolskaya and Elena Firsova, represented in America and Canada through G Schirmer, as well as new signings and a selection of updated works.

There are of course many others too, such as Ethel Smyth, Elisabeth Lutyens, Florence Price, Joan Tower, Kaija Saariaho and Britta Byström who also represent the diversity of our catalogue and are all equally worthy of discovery.

Visit wisemusicclassical.com for more details or contact your local Wise Music Group office or representative for further information about any of the composers or repertoire featured in this booklet.

Yours sincerely,

Wiebke Busch
Managing Director, UK Rights Companies
In 1933, Florence Price became the first African-American woman to have her work performed by a major American orchestra, when the Chicago Symphony Orchestra gave the world premiere of her Symphony No 1 in E Minor. Price’s revelatory interpolation of different African-American music styles into classical compositions will delight and empower audiences and creators for generations to come.

Galina Ustvolskaya (1919-2006)
G Schirmer | Russian | Spotify

‘There is no link whatsoever between my music and that of any other composer, living or dead,’ Galina Ustvolskaya infamously wrote. Her deeply spiritual music can be deafening and explosive, but also eerie and meditative; it rawly explores the darkness and mystery of life and humanity.
